OFFICE OF THE ASSISTANT

My Dear Graduates:-

It is an esteemed privilege to salute you and to wish for you a rich measure of that for which JOHN CARROLL UNIVERSITY has endeavored to equip you, the fulness of culture and holiness which is Catholic life!

You are venturing forth into a world that is sorely tried and tortured. False prophets have arisen in every field of human thought and activity, men of no principle, men of bad principle. You are prepared to meet this world, for you too are men of violence, men of a nobler violence, men of that Christian violence which alone can win the Kingdom of Heaven. You have been given principles for thinking straight, principles for acting right. Use them, as God gives you strength and opportunity, to further His cause on earth and your cause in heaven in whatever field of action the future may open to you!

I pray and trust that yours will be a life of happiness and prosperity. I pray and know that, if you are true to the ideals of your Catholic education, yours will be an eternity of that joy and rich possession, which is God.

Sincerely yours in Christ,

OFFICE OF THE ARCHBISHOP

It is a distinct privilege to extend to the Society of Jesus my heartfelt congratulations on the occasion of the Four Hundredth Anniversary of its foundation.

For four full centuries the Jesuit Fathers have spent themselves in furthering the interests of Holy Mother Church. No religious activity, no field of Catholic endeavor, no type of priestly work, has been overlooked by them. Every nation of the earth has felt their influence and through their efficacious ministry men of every age have learned to live in closer union with Him whose name they bear.

We are happy to have had the Jesuit Fathers here in our city for more than half a century. Although fifty-five years is not long when contrasted with the four hundred years which we commemorate, no one will doubt the great good that they have accomplished in the Cleveland Diocese during those years. We are proud to acclaim the new John Carroll University, which is rapidly taking its place in the ranks of the foremost universities of the country, as a monument to the past achievements of the Jesuit Fathers in Cleveland and as a pledge of an even more glorious future.

May the Providence of God, which has directed the Fathers of the Society of Jesus so well for four hundred years, continue ever to protect them and aid them to do all things for the greater glory of God.

FOREWORD

In this, the third edition of The CARILLON, it is the sincere desire of the editor and staff to picture John Carroll University as it is today. Each phase of the college life has been subjected to a photographic survey in the hope that in this manner the spirit and substance of Carroll will be revealed. Therefore we present The CARILLON of 1941 as a permanent record of life at John Carroll University.

THE UNIVERSITY

Very Reverend
Edmund C. Horne, S.J.

WHEN the Very Reverend Edmund Horne, S.J., came to John Carroll University in 1937, he brought with him an extraordinarily pleasing personality that was powerful withal, an energetic way of doing things, and a remarkable knowledge of Sociology, his chosen field. He was the successor of Father Benedict J. Rodman, S.J., who had directed the building of the present John Carroll. Father Horne, then, stepped into a situation that required of him all the diplomacy and executive talent that he could muster. He had to face the task of "selling" Carroll to the city, to University Heights, to the Catholics of the Cleveland Diocese, and that of making her educational facilities and excellencies well-known throughout Ohio and the nation. The measurer of the success of John Carroll can be gauged by the outstanding success of its present president. Throughout his many activities he has perfused a constant interest in, care for, and consideration of, the student. Indeed, he has so identified himself with the fortune and interests of the University and its students that only the highest praise can even approximately reward him. We think that we can say that our school is fortunate in many respects, but in none more than in its possession of so notable a president. We of the Carillon express for the student body and faculty our pride in him.

THE Carillon also has the privilege of extending to Father Edward C. McCue, S.J., its heartfelt thanks for the warm understanding and sincere co-operation that he has shown to the Carroll student. Under his capable direction, the curriculum has assumed a new efficiency in its disposition; his quiet but determined character has constantly impressed all who have come in contact with him as Dean, a position for which he is ideally fitted. It is one of the central points of the policy that he has enunciated ever since he came to the University in 1938 that every student engage in as many extra-curricular activities as he is capable of doing and as are compatible with his scholastic endeavors. Father McCue combines with his duties as Dean of the Regular Session those of Dean of the Summer School, in which he has taught Ancient Greek Philosophy.

During the time he has obtained here as Dean, a position fraught with the anxieties of the main administrative task of a University, he has taken out time to show personal interest in the scholastic effort of every student. He has also managed to find time to participate actively in the activities of the John Carroll Junior Guild. To him, then, for his outstanding work in the field of Catholic education, we express our thanks and esteem.

Edward C. McCue, S.J.

Reverend Daniel B. Cronin, S.J.
Freshman Dean

Reverend Lionel V. Carron, S.J.
Dean of Extension Courses

Reverend Clifford LeMay, S.J.
Student Counsellor

FACULTY AND

WHEN he came here three years ago, Father Daniel B. Cronin, S.J., took over the vacated position of Freshman Dean and proceeded to inject into his functions in that responsible post the energy, the verve, the vitality that has characterized his career as a member of the Society of Jesus. His careful handling of the frosh has no doubt contributed greatly to whatever measure of success they have attained here at Carroll. Besides being the Freshman monitor, Father Cronin occupies the job of moderator of the John Carroll University Club, an organization founded under his inspiration and guidance by the fathers of past and present students of John Carroll.

THE winning personality and warm smile of Father Lionel V. Carron, S.J., has long been a pleasant thing on the campus and in the classrooms of John Carroll. Besides his position as Dean of the Evening Session, which keeps him busy with its manifold pedagogical and administrative duties, Father Carron discharges the duties of Dean of the Saturday School and Dean of Extension Courses.

Father Carron is a trojan for work, spending a large amount of his free time in improvement of the Carroll landscape—a pleasant recreation for him.

Rev. William J. Murphy, S.J.
Dean of Men

ADMINISTRATION

THE exacting job of Student Counsellor is capably filled by Father Clifford LeMay, S.J., who also is a very proficient instructor of Freshman Religion. Father LeMay's understanding character, perceptive mind, and well-rounded personality give him a peculiar aptitude for the position that he fills. His contacts are with almost every kind of maturing young man and his outstanding and continued success in counselling and advising the hundreds of Carroll students, that have confided their troubles to his sympathetic ear, attest to the use to which he has put his many talents.

GENIAL Father William Murphy, S.J., who has reached his twelfth year of whole-hearted service at Carroll, is Dean of Men, monitor of Bernet Hall, faculty adviser for all student social activities, and director of student promotion work. The band and the Little Theatre Society both have Father Murphy as their moderator. Father Murphy has endeared himself to, and won a place in the hearts of, alumni of John Carroll for many years past and in those of undergraduates of the present.

Registrar Eugene R. Mittinger is one of the oldest members of Carroll's administrative staff in point of service. Mr. Mittinger has been at the University since 1927, when he joined the faculty as Instructor in Mathematics. Another oldtimer on the Carroll administrative staff is Mr. Frank D. Burke, Professor of Chemistry, who has been with that department for twenty consecutive years since he came here in 1921 fresh from graduate study at Catholic University. He obtained his Ch.E. there in 1920. Mr. Burke is well-known in industrial and commercial circles for his activity in the field of chemistry. This year he has conducted a course in explosives in line with the school's policy of co-operation with the government in national defense.

Perhaps the most beloved member of Carroll's faculty is Father George J. Pickel, S.J., Director of the Department of Chemistry, in which capacity he has served since 1928. Father Pickel, who took graduate work at Valkenburg College and at the University of Goettingen, first came to Carroll, then St. Ignatius College, in 1892 as an Instructor in Classics. He left in 1894 and returned again in 1904 as Professor of Chemistry, occupying that position until 1917. Father Pickel has served as President of John Carroll three different times. Indeed, he has imprinted a remarkable record upon the archives of the University as well as a more enduring memory of his character and personality upon the hearts and minds of those with whom he has come in contact. In all, he has put in twenty-six years of his life at this school.

Mr. Aloysius A. Bungart, Assistant Professor of English, has been connected with Carroll during all the years he has spent in teaching. He taught ten years at Carroll's affiliate, St. Ignatius High School, before coming here in 1925. Indeed, he is thoroughly imbued with the school's tradition having received both his A.B. and A.M. degrees here.

Another veteran member of the University faculty is Father Joseph A. Kiefer, S.J., Professor of Classical Languages and Director of the Department. Father Kiefer has been here since 1928. His contagious energy and boundless verve have inspired many Carroll graduates and undergraduates to high-souled action; his profound classical learning has excited admiration among his students. The cheery face of Doctor Hugh Graham, who holds down the threefold duties of Professor of Education, Director of that Department, and Director of Teacher Training Division of the University, has long been seen through the halls of Carroll. He came here in 1930. The Doctor also serves on the Committee for Teacher Training and the Committee on Graduate Work.

In the chair of Assistant Professor of Philosophy is Father Louis J. Puhl, S.J., a faculty member of ten years standing. Father Puhl is one of the few professors at Carroll to obtain a degree from the famed Gregorian Uni-

He combines a sharp wit with a deep knowledge of his subject, and the two give him a very effective classroom personality. John Carroll's French chair is occupied by Mr. Bernard S. Jablonski, who has taught that tongue here since he joined the faculty in 1932. Father Joseph Joliat, S.J., is Professor of Mathematics and possessor of the unique distinction of being the Director of Cleveland's only seismographic station, that at JCU. He has been connected with the university since 1933, when he came here from St. Louis University. Father Leonard H. Otting, S.J., who also has his Ph.D. from Gregorian University, at present holds down a professorship in Philosophy and the directorship of that department. He has been here for eight consecutive years; but, previous to this, he has been Professor of Philosophy and Dean here. This was in 1926-1927.

Head of the Department of Business Administration and Professor of that subject, Mr. Fritz William Graff, has been at John Carroll since 1934. He occupied his present position during all that time. Mr. Graff, in cooperation with the rest of the Business Department faculty, has made the University's degree in the field of business probably the best in Northern Ohio. He has his C.P.A. from the State of Ohio, receiving it in 1927. Another prominent member of the business administration staff is Assistant Professor John A. Seliskar, who is a faculty man of seven years standing. Mr. Seliskar received his A.B. at Carroll in 1931. Mr. Frank A. Bardeen, Assistant Professor of Business Administration, is a third pillar in the complement of his department. He is an M.B.A. and a C.P.A.

Mr. Carl Urankar, Instructor in Mathematics, has been at Carroll since 1933. He joined the faculty then as Instructor in Chemistry and Mathematics. His quiet personality and exacting knowledge have endeared him to the men that have studied under him. Father Henry T. Ahearn, S.J., Professor of Biology and Director of the Department, is a comparatively recent addition to the faculty, having come here in 1936. is another 1936 arrival. His extensive knowledge and brilliant speaking abilities have earned him a place as one of the foremost lecturers in and around Cleveland. Father Chester A. Burns, S.J., Assistant Professor of Classical Languages, has by his deep understanding and poetic penetration laid his students under such a debt that they will be hard put to repay it. He has been at Carroll since 1936. Instructor in English Frank J. Wiess combines with his tutorial duties those of Director of the Little Theatre Society. He came here in 1936.

The Carillon has seen fit in this all too short treatment of the faculty and administration to direct its chief attention to those members of the faculty who have been longest in service here. ON FEBRUARY 14 God's bugle sounded taps to Carroll's soldier-priest, Father Charles McDevitt Ryan, S.J. And as the echoes died away, a murmur of deep regret went through the ranks of Carroll men.

We had heard how in 1917 he had bravely answered the call to the colors as chaplain in the 16th Field Artillery of the 4th Division; how through Chateau Thierry, Aisne, Marne, St. Mihiel, Meuse-Argonne, Champagne, and Loraine he stood fast, side by side with his doughboys, ministering to their spiritual needs, spurring them on to heroism, preparing thousands for death. With reverence we remember that, to the end, he carried two glorious wounds of battle.

And now that the final salute has been given, and a flag flaps over his grave, we realize that he had been a captain in our midst. Always the soldier, he directed a long Carroll campaign on the debate front. Formidable foes like Vermont, California, Marquette, Bucknell, Detroit, New York, Purdue, St. Louis, Ohio State, Northwestern, and even Oxford and Cambridge fell before the charge which he led. Always the soldier, he mingled with us on the campus—toward the end, painfully—inspiring us with courage and enthusiasm for life's battle. Ever the priest, he directed that courage and enthusiasm to victories that are eternal.

Often as the years roll by, when life's battle is upon us, the sound of taps will re-echo again, and we shall remember a soldier priest, marching with our ranks, cheering us when our spirits droop, encouraging us when the fight is hard. And we shall take courage again from the courage of his life.

DEATH TAKES NO HOLIDAY

THERE is one sorrow that finds a home, at some time or other in every human heart, and that one sorrow is sorrow for the dead. Life's paths may be most pleasant, but at some turning a grave is dug, and, at a moment known only to God, that grave will claim some one who is dear to us. Neither human prudence nor human power can stay the execution of the dread decree that it is appointed unto all men once to die. No one, looking around, can fail to perceive the awful universality of death.

Youth, however, in its sheer joy of living, tends to push back the horizon of life and to smile in the conviction that for it death is a long way off. Hence the paralyzing shock when death does break through the ranks of youth and with ruthless disregard snatches from its midst the three young men whom we commemorate on this page. Death seems most cruel as we watch the earth receive the remains of fellow students for whom life had seemed to hold such glowing prospects.

Our sadness, however, is tempered by the consoling power of the sublime truths revealed by our Catholic faith. Their lives are not taken away, but changed into immeasurably higher and happier lives. Their love for us is not extinguished but raised to heights of greater intensity through their new knowledge of man's real worth in the eyes of God. Their interest in us has not diminished but they plead for us before the throne of God that we whom death has passed by so far may have the grace and the foresight and the strength to make of what remains of our life an unbroken apprenticeship for death.

EPIC OF A SENIOR

ON the evening of June 5, Commencement Night, sixty-five men of Carroll will receive their respective rewards for four years of toil, sacrifice and study. When each graduate stops to reminisce, the highlights of his life at Carroll will appear as if to-day and yet, they are gone forever.

September 1937 saw one hundred ninety-four potential Carroll graduates enroll in the Freshman Class. These men had heard of the glories of the old John Carroll and of the promising future of the new University. Upperclassmen spoke of the traditions and life that they had found at both institutions and the majority of praise was in behalf of the new school. Of the Freshman officers, namely: John Forhan, President; Thomas Hopkins, Vice-President; Ralph Beas, Treasurer; and James Carroll, Secretary, only the latter remained to graduate with the Class of 41.

The sophomore year saw one hundred forty-one Carrollites become more deeply embedded in their University. All timidity parted with the initial year and the sophs plunged whole-heartedly into extra activities.

Members of the class were to be found on the rapidly progressing athletic squads, on school publications, and dramatic groups. Leader of this new spirit in the Class of '41 was President Joseph McCarthy.

As Juniors, one hundred two strong, our class attained even greater heights. We contributed, in part, to the athletic renaissance of John Carroll, Dan Ryan outspoke all competition to win the Oratorical Contest, our dramatists achieved additional glory in the annual L. T. S. production and William Joyce was elected Union president for the coming year. Officers of the class were: Gerald Nolan, President; Joseph Kasunic, Vice-President; Charles Sheehe, Secretary; and Patrick McNulty, Treasurer.

Our final year found but a fraction of the original Class of '41 striving to bring honor to the University. The greatest scholastic achievement of the year was the recognition which Dan Ryan and Joseph Saly brought to Carroll by placing high in the finals of the Jesuit Intercollegiate Essay Contest. The new Literary Society and Commerce Club achieved greater prominence this year because of the active and progressive spirit of their senior members. To the Class of '41 also went two of the most cherished prizes in the school, the President's Debate Cup and first in the Oratorical contest. These awards were won by the Maurer-Ryan debate team and orator Jean Moenk. This year's graduating class has set a standard which will be the goal of underclassmen for years to come. Officers of the Seniors were: Joseph McCarthy, President; Samuel Marcus, Vice-President; Gerald Trudel, Secretary; and Donald Myers, Treasurer.

Thus we have seen the life of the Class of '41 and on Commencement Night John Carroll University will launch onto the sea of life a new fleet of over sixty-five ships, well equipped for storms and tempests. Many of the Carroll Alumni will go back to their distant homes living monuments to the Jesuit system of education. Others will stay on to pursue their education in higher fields, but all, at some Homecoming in the future, will look back on their days at John Carroll with happy recollections.

THE JUNIOR CLASS

IN AN annual of this sort the Seniors, as the men who are about to take leave of Carroll, deserve the greatest notice, but as we look toward next year, the Juniors, next year's leaders, bulk large on the horizon of Carroll's future.

The Junior class, since its enrollment in the fall of 1938 as the largest Freshman class yet to enroll at Carroll, has compiled a record of which it can be justly proud in contributing to the prestige of the university. The unprecedented spirit and enthusiasm of the Football Rallies of 1938 was due in great measure to the members of the Freshman class of that year. It was in that same year that the scholars among the ranks of this class made their presence felt by placing themselves high in scholastic standing.

The class of '42 has been notably active in its initiation and support of extra-curricular activities and social affairs during the past three years, and as Seniors next year, they confidently expect that their achievements in both scholastic and extra-curricular fields will reach a new high. To the athletic teams which have represented the school, the class of '42 has provided its share of athletes. They have played with the loyalty and courage in the face of adversity which we have come to expect of John Carroll teams.

On this and the following pages we present the students who will have the most to do in the activities of Carroll in 1941 and 1942. The Carillon presents the Juniors.

THE SOPHOMORE CLASS

IF THE ability that it demonstrated as the sophomore class is a criterion, then the Class of 1943 may prove to be one of the outstanding ones in recent John Carroll history. Its members have distinguished themselves in the three major athletic branches, in debating and oratory, in dramatics, on the student publications, and in every school club and activity. Academically, the class led all others with five of the school's seven all-A scholars. Clayton Matowitz, president of the class delivered the keynoting speech at the celebration honoring Father Horne, president of the University. The class dance in January proved to be one of the season's social highlights. Combining leadership, versatility, and spirit, the Class of 1943 will be an important factor in the future growth of John Carroll.

CIVILIAN PILOT TRAINING PROGRAM

THE Civilian Pilot Training Program has made available to Carroll students the opportunities and thrills of flying experience. Under the auspices of the University in conjunction with the Cleveland Flying Service of the Cleveland Municipal Airport two programs were completed in the past year.

The ground school was conducted in the evening at John Carroll under the guidance of Rev. Joseph S. Joliet, S.J. Courses in navigation, air commerce regulations, meteorology, and elementary aerodynamics were given during this period.

The actual flight instruction was in the hands of Mr. Al Wagner. Through gradual but effective methods he taught the student how to coordinate the controls, overcome and avoid unexpected difficulties while in the air and to perform the elementary maneuvers of flying.

After about eight hours of dual flying the student is then ready for his big moment—the solo hop. Following this achievement the student continues his work and when thirty-five total hours have been completed and the recruit has mastered advanced instruction courses he is ready to apply for his flight test. A Private Pilot certificate is issued after the student has proved to a government inspector that he is capable of handling a ship. This license is only good for that classification of ships with which the new aviator is familiar.

This program has offered and will continue to offer men of Carroll an opportunity to become associated with the greatest industry in the world.

AT THE AIRPORT

Cantillon and Blodgett prepare to worm up a ship.

Sebian, Zielinski and Kress inspect Ben Howard's racer, "Ike".

Students and instructor watch spot landing practice.

The instructors and Cantillon plan a cross-country flight.

THE EVENING SESSION

Mr. Weiss explains the fundamentals of Rhetoric and Composition.

Fr. Puhl expounds Advanced Psychology to a mixed group.

Family incomes are discussed in Mr. Hill's class.

A class in Modern U. S. History, taught by Mr. Reilly.

Mr. Hills smiles approval—the budget is balanced.

Fr. Otting elucidates a problem in Applied Ethics.

BERNET HALL COUNCIL

LIFE IN BERNET HALL

UPON the Carroll Campus is one of the most beautiful structures ever to adorn a university's campus in the state of Ohio. Not only is this residence hall a sight to perceive from the exterior, but it is also interiorly striking, with the most modern of conveniences for the students residing on the campus.

Bernet Hall life is an ideal one for the young man of today, who desires to attend a university. Among the fellows there exists an exceedingly fine spirit of cooperation and good sportsmanship.

Responsible for the activities and the student promotion affairs is the Bernet Hall Council, which is made up of sixteen students of the Hall. The president of this group is Jack Ennen, and the secretary, Mitchell Shaker. Among others who deserve honorable mention are Jack Turowski and Louis Konya. Rev. William J. Murphy, S.J., prefect of Bernet Hall, is also the moderator of the body.

Throughout the year such affairs as dances, card parties, tobagganing trips, and various other programs are presented for the benefit of the resident students.

In the field of athletics each year tournaments in football, baseball, basketball, and ping pong are held, with the winners receiving fine awards. These tournaments encourage to a great extent fine sportsmanship among the fellows, and provide a means of recreation in times of leisure.

The atmosphere in the Hall is ideal for study. This fact accounts for the excellent system employed by the head prefect, who is ably assisted by the Rev. B. J. Wernert, S.J. and Mr. Frank Gaul, assistant football coach at John Carroll.

Here is a typical schedule for the resident student: he rises at seven-thirty in the morning, eats breakfast at a quarter of eight; his first class usually begins at nine o'clock, but this varies with the student's course; at noon he eats lunch and resumes class at one o'clock. After his last class, which is usually at three o'clock, there is a period of recreation, and the student is permitted to do as he wishes, whether it be study, recreation, or sleep. At six o'clock dinner is served. At eight o'clock study hours officially begin. The average student retires at ten-thirty. Thus goes the life of the typical Bernet Hall student.

Much more can be said concerning Bernet Hall life, but enough has been demonstrated to depict for anyone the procedure and the spirit about the Hall.

To the prefects, to the Hall Council, and to the fine group of students who reside on campus, much credit is due for a fine life for any student who wishes to be a resident of Bernet Hall of John Carroll University.

NATIONAL HONORARY FRATERNITY OF JESUIT COLLEGES IN THE UNITED STATES

ACADEMIC superiority, service, and loyalty are prerequisites for admission to the honor fraternity, Alpha Sigma Nu. These standards of excellence have made it the supreme goal for Catholic young men in Jesuit colleges. It has no less a notable record at John Carroll.

Prestige and distinction accrue to it from the very nature of its organization. The triple requirements of scholarship, loyalty, and service that must be satisfied have sufficed to limit the membership to the outstanding young men of the University. Their purpose is to add to the prestige of the university and in doing so, to create a more wholesome atmosphere for student life and activity.

"To undertake independent action when there is need of such"—this excerpt from the club's constitution illustrates the broad duties which descend on its members. It strives to foster wholesome activities and to counteract any subversive trend which might detract from the honor of the university.

Although the nature of the society tends to screen its work, ASN plays an integral part in stabilizing and strengthening a healthy student life. In a word the society represents the personification of the high ideals to which Catholic young men everywhere aspire.

Its monthly meetings are under the direction of Fr. Paul Sullivan, S.J., himself a member, and Rev. E. C. Horne, S.J. Harry Svec who has attained to high honor in the field of chemistry was the club's president for the past year. Paul Vincent distinguished in many different capacities was given the post of vice-president. Robert Ress gained the position of secretary and conducted it with the efficiency that has made him outstanding in many school functions. The society elected Charles Maurer as its treasurer. His work as vice-president of the oratorical society has lent him the respect of the students and faculty. In such a group of campus dignitaries there can be little distinction between officers and members.

Other members of Alpha Sigma Nu are Joseph Saly, former president of the Societas Tuscalana, prominent in various activities; Dan Ryan, who has worked assiduously in the oratorical society; Sam Marcus, varsity football player and member of the All Big Four; William Joyce president of the Carroll Union and honorary Prom King; Jack Schmitt, former editor of the Carroll News; Frank Greicius, an officer of the Glee Club and active in several other campus organizations; Frank Honn, Scientific Academy president and grade A student for his three years at Carroll; Peter Mesner, president of the Inter-collegiate Club and vice-president of the Little Theater society; and, Frank Talty, Junior class president and star varsity basketball player.

LONG holding the spotlight in the activities program of John Carroll is the Carroll Union, an organization of twenty-one student leaders which represents the entire student body. It is composed of three representatives from each class and the presidents of the extra-curricular clubs.

To mention the functions of the Union is to enumerate in one way or another the activities of every organization in the University. Such programs as the annual Stunt Nite affair, the John Carroll Prom, the various intramural athletic tournaments, and the pep rallies form but a part of the duties of this body.

This Executive Council meets once a week, arranges dates for the presentation of various activities, and represents the student body before the Administration. It is the specific duty of this organization to hear any complaints or reforms that might be advocated by the students and to take up the problems with the officials.

This year the Carroll Union did much to bring about the success of the John Carroll University Jamboree, which was held during the Thanksgiving holidays.

Due to the untiring cooperation of this body with the various organizations of the University, extra-curricular activities constantly held the attention of the student body.

To William Joyce, the Union President, belongs a great deal of the credit given to the Council. It was his intelligent leadership that had an important bearing upon the splendid results of the members' hard labor.

The other officers, who contributed their time and effort, were John Ennen, Vice-President, Francis Talty, Secretary, and Clayton Matowitz, Treasurer.

Special recognition should be given to the Rev. William J. Murphy, S.J., the Union moderator, who also serves the University as Dean of Men. His advice and guidance proved valuable upon many occasions.

JOHN CARROLL SODALITY

JOHN CARROLL'S Sodalists may be justly proud of a year which saw their activities crowned with a high degree of success. The purpose of the Sodality is to foster among students personal holiness and active Catholicity under the patronage and inspiration of the Blessed Virgin. Spiritual and social activities were the means employed by the Sodality in accomplishing its avowed purpose.

As in previous years, the Sodality undertook a Christmas basket drive among the entire student body which supplied many needy families with food during the Holy Season. In addition to the drive, funds were raised for this cause by a Thanksgiving Dance, under the chairmanship of Kenneth Fitzgerald, which proved a financial and social success.

The Sodality arranged Benedictions of the Blessed Sacrament on religious occasions and posted exhortations to personal holiness on the bulletin boards. Its weekly meetings were conducted as informally as possible in order that every member should have the opportunity to take an active part in the functions of the society.

The Sodality is a service organization interested in furthering Catholic spirit and activity on the campus. Its outstanding success in this field is due in great measure to its hard-working moderator, Father James J. McQuade, S.J. Father McQuade's bi-monthly articles appearing in the Carroll News have done a great deal in providing Catholic thought material for the student body.

The Carillon sincerely desires to congratulate the students who have led this organization to its attained goal. Especially deserving of congratulations are: Charles Maurer, prefect and directing force in all the activities of the organization; Kenneth Fitzgerald, assistant prefect and chairman of the Thanksgiving Dance; Lawrence Cahill, secretary of the Sodality and director of the popular Football Forecast Pool, the proceeds of which went to aid the Jesuit Missions and Catholic Charities; Daniel Ryan, chairman of the Catholic Literature Committee, formed to study Catholic literature, to encourage original effort in this field, and to make a critical study of the way in which the secular press handled events which were of special interest to Catholics and to report on these.

Also deserving of mention for their fine work are: Arthur Wincek, chairman of the Xavier Club, an organization within the Sodality which worked to aid the Jesuit Missions and which was one of the most successful of the Sodality activities; Nick Predovich, chairman of the publicity committee; William Balazs, chairman of the Christmas Basket Drive; Francis Dillon, director of the Discussion Group which held bi-weekly meetings featured by informal discussions on topics of interest to young Catholic men.

THE grandeur that was ancient Greece's and the glory that was Rome's have been dead for thousands of years, but the attempt to revive the classical spirit of those ancient civilizations lives on at John Carroll in the Societas Tusculana. Its members are banded together in the fraternal bond that comes from a diligent communal perusal of such immortals as Horace, Cicero, Vergil, Tacitus and Livy. The members worked toward their goal—"Integer vitae scelerisque purus"—by presenting papers, giving talks, taking part in pertinent discussions, and listening to the sage counsel which fell from the lips of their solon, Father Joseph A. Kiefer, S.J., professor of the classics at Carroll.

Lawrence Cahill vigorously administered the office of president while Joseph Curry acted as official scrivener of the society.

The organization set as its avowed purpose the attacking of that school of thought which holds that the classics are not only dead, but useless and an obstacle in the modern progressive educational curriculum. Emphasizing that a training in the classics will train the mind to cope with the really fundamental problems in life as well as to enjoy the noblest sentiments of the ancients, the members strove for a mastery of the Latin language and a more thorough understanding of the Greek. Each member responded to the roll call with a Latin quotation and frequent practice was given to conversational Latin.

LES VINGT-CINQ, the French Club of the University, is open only to those students who have maintained a high average in their French courses. The French Club is affiliated with the Alliance Francaise Federation in New York and has set as its guiding purpose the acquisition of greater facility in the use of the French language and a more extensive knowledge of France and its culture. Bi-monthly meetings are held which include informal discussions of modern France, reviews of the works of the French masters, and occasional short plays or skits. The official organ of the society is the monthly French journal La Revue de Carroll, edited by students themselves, with Frank Greicius as editor and Joseph Hachey and Edward Kuznik as his assistants. The paper contains articles dealing with modern France and French life and is printed entirely in French.

The social activities of the society included an annual dance, on St. Patrick's Day, to which all former members and friends of the organization were invited, and an annual picnic held in May. The president of Les Vingt-Cinq is William Joyce, who has been aided in his official duties by Louis Konya, vice-president; and Joseph Hachey, secretary-treasurer. Mr. Bernard S. Jablonski, assistant professor of French at the university, is moderator of the French Club and to him is due in great part the interest and enthusiasm of the members.

THE Scientific Academy is an organization which serves to promote an active interest in the sciences of biology, chemistry, mathematics and physics through the mutual cooperation of students and faculty. During the past year, five major projects helped achieve that purpose. Weekly seminars on a variety of scientific topics were given by professors, students and prominent outside speakers. To publicize the work of the Academy, printed announcements of forthcoming seminars were mailed to neighboring schools, colleges and laboratories.

The annual prize of a Handbook of Chemistry and Physics for the outstanding freshman scientist was awarded to Vance Fitzgerald, who held the highest average in his class. A mathematics chapter was formed under the direction of Dr. J. L. Hunter and Robert Kleinhenz to provide special work for students in advanced mathematics. To stimulate general student interest in modern scientific achievement, colorful and instructive exhibits were displayed in the basement corridor show windows. As a reward for at least two years meritorious service, gold keys were awarded to several members of the Academy during the second semester.

Officers of the Academy for the year were Francis Honn, president, Robert Kleinhenz, vice-president, Donald Hueber and Vance Fitzgerald, secretaries, and Irvin Blose, treasurer.

Considerable progress was also made in the various scientific departments. In response to the needs of national defense, Mr. Frank D. Burke, professor of Chemistry, inaugurated a course in military explosives. This course, the only one of its kind in this part of the nation, featured not only the theoretical background of the industry, but also actual laboratory work in the preparation, analysis and testing of raw materials, propellant powders and detonating explosives. Also in response to an industrial demand, Fr. George J. Pickel, head of the Chemistry department, offered for the first time a comprehensive course in synthetic plastics. Here, too, both theory and laboratory work were emphasized.

In the mathematics department, a high speed camera was developed with a stroboscopic shutter action of one twenty-thousandths of a second. High speed photographs were taken with this camera and an ordinary motion picture camera to check calculations made in certain analytical dynamics problems. Work was also done in the field of hydrodynamics, especially with regard to the mapping of streamlined surfaces such as airplane wings.

In the biology department, a powerful electron microscope was brought nearer completion under the direction of Fr. Henry T. Ahearn and Mr. Edward Huttinger. Work on the instrument was greatly advanced by the purchase of an efficient mercury diffusion vacuum pump needed in the microscope. Completion of the high voltage electrical circuit is expected this summer.

Other important research equipment obtained by the department includes a complete nitrometer for the determination of nitrogen in tissue and a new instrument for the electrometric determination of pH. A new course offered during the past year was parasitology, given by Dr. Vincent Dethier.

WITH the maturity of the debating abilities of its more seasoned members, the John Carroll Oratorical Society enjoyed another year of success. Especially prominent as debaters among the graduating class were Daniel Ryan, Charles Maurer, Robert Hengesbach, Michael Lash, Joseph Curry, Paul Vincent, James Carroll, and Robert Ress. From this group were selected mainly the men who represented Carroll in various tournaments and speaking engagements. Following the custom established in the previous year, short trips replaced extended tours, thus enabling more men to gain experience.

Much of the responsibility for the success of the Oratorical Society during the past season fell upon the shoulders of its capable staff of officers. Paul Vincent presided over the organization, and was aided by Charles Maurer, Vice-President; Kenneth Fitzgerald, Recording Secretary; and Joseph Wolff, Corresponding Secretary. It was the diligence and forethought of these officers that contributed in a great measure to the success which the society enjoyed.

The future of the Oratorical Society appears bright at the close of this semester since the forthcoming sophomore class will unite with an experienced class of '43. Six of the eight competitors in the semi-finals of the debate tournament were sophomores.
They were Larry Cahill, Mitch Shaker, Tom Dunnigan, Joe Wolff, Ted Saker, and Emmet Quinn. Most of these yearlings also engaged in trips to various other institutions for tournament and non-decision debates. Combined with the members of the present
junior class, Bill Lennon, Jack Mc-Laughlin, and Ken Fitzgerald, the squad of 1941-'42 is expected to maintain the enviable record established by the graduating orators.

The Northeastern Ohio Debate Conference Tournament, which was held on March 22, 1941 at Carroll is another achievement for the society.
But it was not only in debating that the members distinguished themselves.
Individually, and in groups, they presented programs of current interest to audiences supplied by the Cleveland Public Library and the Civilian Conservation Corps. Thus the members of the Speakers' Bureau brought more recognition to the school. After this schedule, the society presented its annual Oratorical Contest in April, which was managed by Daniel Ryan.

TO OFFER novice debaters and orators a chance to develop their natural talents along these lines and to insure a steady influx of seasoned speakers into the Oratorical Society are the avowed purposes of the Freshman Oratorical Society. Founded in 1939 by the Class of '43, the society progressed steadily throughout its second year offering the members opportunities for debates both with other colleges and among themselves.

The climax of the society's season came in the tournament which it sponsored in the spring. A large number of teams entered the competition with each participating in five debates. Four teams particularly distinguished themselves in this tournament. They were the affirmative combines of Edward McCormick—Vance Fitzgerald and Clifford Duffner—William Mulligan and the negative teams of Robert Ennen—James Henderson and John Malloy—Robert Bagley.

In January the society was represented at the Baldwin-Wallace Novice Tournament and later in the same month sponsored two debates with Notre Dame College. During February members of the society attended the Parliamentary Assembly at Kent State.

Officers of the Freshman Oratorical Society were: William Grose, president; Kermit Neely, vice-president; Edward McCormick, secretary; and Thomas O'Brien, treasurer.

JOHN CARROLL UNIVERSITY PRESENTS

John Carroll University
goes on the air

SINCE the first week in October of 1938, the John Carroll Radio Club has presented a weekly broadcast each Saturday over Station WTAM. These programs have gained wide recognition for their educational and cultural value.

Of the several students participating those meriting individual mention are Daniel Ryan and Irvin Blose, Frank Greicius, the organist, and James Brugger, the Master of Ceremonies. Father William Ryan, S. J., the director of the Radio Club, is a primary reason for much of the success attained by this active group.

A word of gratitude is due to the National Broadcasting Company and especially to its Cleveland representatives, who have given this Club their time and co-operation.

Throughout the year several members of the faculty contributed their part to the success of the programs by giving talks and leading discussions in varied fields of interest.

Not only have these programs afforded students participating in them an excellent training in radio speaking, but they have also introduced the possibility of later obtaining positions in the field of radio.

OF great interest has the Spanish Club been to students advanced in the modern language. This year, under the leadership of Mr. Eugene Cairo, the Leon Club has increased its enrollment to forty, thus becoming one of the larger societies at John Carroll.

Much has been accomplished in the discussion of Spanish literature and the Latin American culture in the form of varied reports offered by the members at each of the meetings.

The students at John Carroll have displayed a keen interest in the study of the Spanish language, as is witnessed by the popularity of the courses given by the University and the large classes in each of the divisions.

The feature of the Club's social activity during the year was the gay dance sponsored in conjunction with a play presented by the Little Theatre Society, in the latter part of the year. As usual the annual club picnic was a huge success.

To be a member of the John Carroll Spanish Club is not only a step toward educational advancement, but truly a means for better enjoying the study of that language, which in recent years has soared to amazing popularity among students and professors of American universities.

MEMBERSHIP in the Commerce Club of John Carroll is limited to those undergraduate and graduate students in the Department of Business Administration who are doing acceptable work in that field. The aim of the Commerce Club is to foster a scholarly interest in the problems and practices of modern business management and to encourage a spirit of friendly cooperation among the department members.

President Robert J. Ress, was afforded assistance in his executive duties by John Schmitt, vice-president; George Hileman, secretary; and Frank Devlin, treasurer.

This year the society formulated a policy of increased activity on the part of its members. In accordance with this policy, the members made a field-trip to a local business establishment, and held a dinner-meeting at the Fischer-Rohr Restaurant, which featured an address by a prominent Cleveland businessman. Its purely social activities included a Senior Farewell party sponsored by the Junior members, and a formal dinner-dance for Senior members held late in May.

Since the Carroll Commerce Club was organized in the fall of 1934, it has succeeded in promoting an active interest in the problems which confront the Catholic layman engaged in business today. It has become an increasingly important part of Carroll's Business Administration Department.

FOR a long time the Little Theatre Society has been one of the most successful organizations at John Carroll. This outstanding achievement is due largely to the capable leadership of Frank J. Wiess, the director, and Rev. William J. Murphy, S.J., the moderator.

The productions of the year included a popular presentation of "I Killed The Count" in February, as the major play, and a series of one-act plays produced in April, one of them in conjunction with the Spanish Club Dance.

The Society's officers were: President, Irvin Blose; Vice President, Peter Mesner; Secretary, Mitchell Shaker; and Treasurer, Robert Bambrick.

Special recognition should be given to Dr. Joseph Hunter who gave most valuable assistance in all productions. This year's main presentation, "I Killed The Count," a three-act mystery-comedy, written by Alec Coppel, was staged for three nights to the delight of appreciative audiences. Irvin Blose and Robert McDermott portrayed the leading roles in stellar fashion, while Peter Mesner, Mitchell Shaker, Emmet Quinn, Theodore Saker, and Thomas O'Brien gave excellent interpretations of their respective characters.

The Little Theatre Society looks to the following two years with eager expectations for not only is there a fine group of Sophomores to bear the burden of production, but also a co-operating class of Freshmen eager to give their services.

To mention all persons who contributed to the success of the Club's activities would require more than the allotted space. Let it suffice to mention here the efforts of the business staff under Robert Ress, which was responsible in part for the financial success of the Little Theatre Society.

THE Literary Society is a club that is unique among the organizations of John Carroll University. It is composed of twelve men who are brought together by a common interest in the great literary masters, and who seek to improve their own writing style by imitative and creative work. Each of the members devotes his time to the preparation of at least one scholarly paper, which treatise may be a criticism of an author and his work, an essay, a short story, or any other phase of literature in which the writer is particularly interested. This paper is then read at one of the meetings and subjected to the criticism of the other members.

Alone among John Carroll clubs, the Literary Society has eschewed politics and has refused membership in the Carroll Union, preferring to remain a strictly "literary" society.

In November and then again in May the society sponsored a dinner for members and friends. Dr. J. De-Lancey Ferguson, one of the foremost authorities on Robert Burns and American Literature, was the honored guest at the fall banquet.

The society is restricted to those who are, or will be, majoring or minor-ing in English. Candidates are nominated, asked to contribute a specimen of their literary ability, referred to members of the English Department for approval, and finally voted upon by the members themselves.

Gerald Trudel was president of the Literary Society and William Higgins was vice-president. Both of these men were graduated in June. A junior, John McLaughlin fulfilled the post of secretary. Other members were William Joyce, Donald Myers, Joseph Saly, and John Schmitt, seniors; Robert Donnelly and William McAvoy, juniors; Thomas Dunnigan and Joseph Wolff, sophomores; and Robert Ennen, freshman.

OF COMPARATIVELY recent origin at John Carroll is the Sociology Club. This society was instituted for the purpose of supplementing class work and stimulating interest in research work among the students of that department.

Since its founding the group has realized the designs of its promoters in effecting a proper equilibrium between the theory of classroom discussion and the practical and specific applications of that theory. Moreover it has given up and coming sociologists the professional view of the immediate sociological field.

The society holds its meetings once a month. The program usually includes a speaker prominent in sociological circles. In the course of the year the club has been addressed by Dr. W. Hoyt; Mr. Weinacht, assistant county prosecutor; and Mr. Walter Bold, secret service agent of the treasury department.

One of its most interesting and helpful approaches to pertinent problems of the day has been its extensive trips throughout the state to places of sociological interest. Trips to Lima State Hospital and Marysville reformatory were highlights of this program.

President Donald Myers has been a main factor in contributing to the club's success. Under the direction of Fr. Louis G. Weitzman, S.J., and with the cooperation of Vice-President Joseph Vacha, Secretary John S. Ennen, and Treasurer William Conley, the club completed a highly successful season.

THE UNIVERSITY BAND

COMBINING colorful marching with spirited music, the John Carroll University Band enjoyed another successful year. Accompanying the football and hockey teams to their encounters has been their major duty, and whenever the athletes failed to keep up the courage of the rooters, the band always furnished the enthusiasm.

The Band marched in various parades, principally in the St. Patrick's Day Parade, and offered a concert with the choral group of Ursuline College.

Director Jack T. Hearn is especially responsible for the performances of the band. A large share of the credit is likewise due Father William J. Murphy, S.J., moderator, for the presence of the band at football and hockey games is the result of his work. A special word of recognition goes also to Paul Vincent, who has been an active member of the organization throughout his stay at Carroll.

Peter Corrigan, drum-major served in the office of band president. His associate officers were Robert Wolf, vice-president, Alvin Zielinski, secretary, and Thomas Mazanec, treasurer.

THE CARROLL NEWS

"EDITED for and by the students of John Carroll . . . to recognize merit." According to these stated principles has the Carroll News been written throughout the past year, and successfully has fulfilled such a purpose. As proof of this, the News has again merited and received the "All-Catholic" rating among national collegiate publications.

Responsible in a large measure for its reliability and popularity was John F. Schmitt who, in the editor's post, guided the staff in publishing this bi-weekly.

Robert L. Vitek, who ruled as Sports Editor, is another whose accomplishments are noteworthy. Others of the Class of '41 who contributed regularly to the publication are Paul Vincent and William Rose. Their columns were features which received approval from many readers.

With the mid-year staff changes, John L. Dowling assumed the duties of editor. Through his diligent efforts he has maintained the precedents established by his predecessors, and with the continuance of such work the paper cannot but advance to greater journalistic heights.

Dowling's assistants have been the associate editors, J. Emmet Quinn and Theodore R. Saker. In the Sports department, Joseph J. Wolff has moved into the position Vitek vacated. In addition, Pasquale Columbro succeeded to the Business Manager's job, and H. Kenneth Fitzgerald was made Feature Editor.

For their fidelity, and hard work Sam Calandra, Edward Kipfstuhl, Thomas Moore, Michael Zona, and a few other Sophomores and Freshmen deserve special praise.

AT last The CARILLON has become an institution at John Carroll. For the first time in the history of the University a student yearbook will appear for two successive years. The publication of this third edition is possible only because of the combined effort and desire of Fr. Horne and Fr. McCue to give the students of John Carroll a permanent record of their years at the University.

Actual work on The CARILLON was somewhat delayed this year and it was not until early Spring that definite progress was noticed. The guiding hand of Rev. Bernard J. Wernert, S. J., Moderator, was an inspiration to the entire staff during this crucial period of production.

The staff of this year's annual was headed by Editor Gerald E. Trudel and he was assisted by Thomas Dunnigan. The remainder of staff consisted of Robert Byrne and Robert Bambrick, Business Managers; William Dowling, Sports Editor; and Irwin Friedman, Director of Photography. All of the above men were assisted by others

Now that The CARILLON has become a reality at Carroll the editors hope that you will approve of their work and encourage the continuance of this yearly publication.

ATHLETIC CONTROL

LONG before the fans thrill at the sight of a swivel-hipped halfback sprinting for a touchdown, long before that last-minute field goal is caged, and long before the roar resounds from the grandstands, there is an ambitious group of men that is working efficiently so that the many athletic contests of John Carroll University will operate in perfect coordination. These men deserve many times the credit that they actually receive for their unselfish efforts.

The first of these groups, the Athletic Advisory Board of the University is composed of the Rev. Edward C. McCue, S.J., Chairman; Thomas A. Conley, Director of Athletics, and Eugene R. Mittinger, Registrar. In addition to dictating the rules of eligibility, this group also acts as an advisory body which decides matters of policy.

One of the most arduous tasks connected with athletics is that of coaching. It is the coaches who must shape players into a well-organized and smoothly functioning team.

The coaching staff is headed by Thomas A. Conley, Coach of Varsity Football and Basketball, and is supplemented by Eugene G. Oberst, varsity Football Line Coach and Director of Intramural Athletics; Francis J. Gaul, Varsity Football Backfield Coach and Boxing Coach; Herb Bee, Varsity Hockey and Head Trainer; Charles W. Heaton, Varsity Tennis; and Raymond J. McGorray, Assistant Varsity and Freshman Basketball Coach. Not only have these men imparted their athletic knowledge to the boys who played for them, but they have also enkindled in them the will to win and have taught them to place sportsmanship above other considerations.

Comparable to the "forgotten men" are the managers, who fill the less glorious, but very important, jobs of maintenance and distribution of the equipment of an athletic team. Headed by John Ennen, this group served in an unusually efficient manner and handled its various assignments capably. The complete staff of managers and the sports in which they were most prominent during the past year were: Ennen, Senior Manager; Don Flynn, basketball; Dan Hesper, hockey; Ed O'Malley, tennis; Tom Kuebrich, football; Jack Gallagher, football; Ralph Debevec, football; Dick Golrick, basketball; Joe Stolla, intramural athletics; Bob Meaker and Al Kozel, freshman football and basketball.

We feel that this is the proper place to tender the congratulations of the student body in particular, to these persons who have presented such a successful season of athletics during 1940 and 1941. Long after the roar that comes from the grandstand has died away, these men are busy performing their individual tasks which are very important and necessary parts of John Carroll University's athletics.

IF IT'S possible in football, the John Carroll University team of 1940 "had two strikes on them before they started," as the saying goes. It was the duty of these men to follow the championship team of 1939, which won the "Big Four" title and finished the season with the remarkable record of seven victories and one defeat. There was barely the nucleus of a team left from last year's varsity, after fifteen men were lost through graduation. It was Tom Conley's job to start again, as he did in his first year at Carroll, and build another championship team. Three senior lettermen who returned were Captain Carl Estenik, Lou Konya, and Sam Marcus, and this trio was supplemented by a small group of juniors who had seen action during the preceding season.

Conley's 1940 "Blue Streaks"

opened their new season against the team from Arkansas Polytechnic, who, like Carroll, was champion of its own league, the Arkansas Collegiate Conference, in 1939. The "Big Four" titleholders of last year were not to be dazzled by the style of play of the "Polys", and though their opponents were heavy and fast, Carroll proved to be the superior team. The effective passing of Steve Polachek, star left halfback, put the Carroll team in a scoring position late in the second quarter. Little Tony Yonto, fullback, smashed over with the ball from his own four yard line for the touchdown, and Polachek converted for the extra point to give Carroll the margin it needed for victory. Arkansas' only score was a touchdown that came late in the second quarter, and thus the game ended with Carroll winning the season opener, 7-6.

Davis, Iacobucci, Rutowski, Hettler, Hoynes, Meagher, Van De Motter, Conforti, Markus.

Capt. Estenik carries for Carroll.

In their first "Big Four" game of the season with Baldwin-Wallace, Carroll met a brilliant team which proved to be too much for them. The "Yellow Jackets", who were touted as leading contenders for the local title, lived up to all advanced notices and bewildered the "Blue Streaks" with their power plays, scoring twenty points in the second quarter, and twelve more in the fourth quarter, to win by a score of 32-0. This loss was an unhappy one for the Carroll rooters who had hoped for another undefeated season in "Big Four" competition.

Following Baldwin-Wallace came the Case "Rough Riders" the next week. The second of their league opponents possessed too much reserve strength for the Blue and Gold, and, consequently, subdued the home team, 31-12. The continual substitution of fresh men proved to be the deciding factor in this game played under the lights at Shaw Field. However, a new threat was discovered in Phil McGrath, left halfback, who brought the Carroll cheering section to its feet by his passes which accounted for the twelve points scored by Carroll late in the fourth quarter. Especially commendable in this game was the valiant defensive play of Lou Konya, whose stubborn stand stopped one after another of the Case advances.

Invading Cincinnati the next week, a vastly improved Carroll team met the St. Xavier "Musketeers" and were defeated, but not so badly as the 20-0 score might indicate. Throughout the entire game, the two teams battled on even terms. Both in the first and second quarters, Carroll advanced to their opponents' fifteen yard line, only to be stopped both times. A seventy yard drive by St. Xavier was climaxed by their first touchdown in the second quarter. They scored two touchdowns through the alert play of two of their men who intercepted two of Carroll's passes. Worthy of note is the fact that Carroll made eight first downs, while the "Musketeers" made only six, a fact which shows that the Carroll line was deserving of more credit than it was given.

Nine sophomores were called upon to start the game against one of this State's strongest teams, the Toledo "Rockets". These boys played hard, and although they gave their utmost, they were forced to bow to the "Rockets'" brilliant eleven after a stubborn struggle. Led by their star, Bobby Nash, the Toledo team scored three times in the first half, and despite the resistance of Carroll, managed to push over two more tallies in the second half. However, Carroll, was not without its offensive power. In the second half, Steve Polachek and Carl Estenik passed and ran for the first touchdown, and again in the same period, Bob Yanke, sophomore right halfback, threw a brilliant pass to Polachek for the "Streaks'" second score. Toledo counted its third victory over Carroll in as many years as the game ended, 33-12.

Completely outplaying their opponents from Davis-Elkins in their following game, the "Streaks" broke their four game losing streak by trouncing the southerners, 21-7. The novel style of play of these newcomers on Carroll's schedule was no mystery to the Conleymen, as they proceeded to stop the "Senators'" runners before they could get started. The spirited Carroll team overcame a 7-6 lead by scoring a touchdown early in the third quarter. Sam Marcus, received one of the biggest thrills of his career when he blocked a punt and fell on it for his one and only touchdown in three years at Carroll. Aggressive play on the part of big Ed Sheridan, center, and Jim Conforti, tackle, accounted for two more points as they tackled Goodman of Davis-Elkins behind his own goal line for a safety. Another junior, Vince DeJulius, took the ball from center and plunged over from his own two yard line for the last touchdown of the game. Carroll marked up its second win of the season with this 21-7 victory over the team from Davis-Elkins.

A Western Reserve team anxious to avenge the defeat of last year when Carroll repulsed it in the game that decided the "Big Four" championship, met Carroll the following week at League Park. The "Red Cats" were determined not to be stopped this year, for they were on their way to the local title and eventually nationwide acclaim. The "Streaks" fought bitterly before they were defeated by the Reserve team. The defensive play of Carroll reached a new high that day, as the Blue Streaks fought brilliantly to hold the "Red Cats" in check. Reserve started early in the game, however, to hammer at the Carroll line, and, after a long march, scored its initial touchdown in the first quarter. The stalwart Carroll men fought Reserve to a standstill for the rest of the game, with the exception of the time that they failed to stop the elusive Johnny Ries, who returned a Carroll punt forty-six yards for the second and final touchdown of the game. The "Streaks" were glorious even in their 12-0 defeat, for they were playing against a heavier and faster eleven.

The "famine after the feast" came on Thanksgiving Day in the Akron

Rubber Bowl when the Akron University's "Zippers" gave Carroll its worst defeat in recent years. Believed to be suffering from a let-down after their remarkable showing against Reserve, the "Blue Streaks" were the victims of a 47-0 trouncing as they wrote "Finis" to their 1940 season.

THE BASKETBALL SEASON

THE Blue Streaks had scarcely completed their regular gridiron campaign when Carroll fans turned their attention from the stadium to the Gym.

The initial game of the season was the first taste of varsity competition for most of the boys on the squad. The uninitiated sophomores made glaring errors, but they were errors of inexperience that could be corrected with additional competition. Their set plays only infrequently functioned smoothly, and the team's coordination lacked development.

Quite different was the squad of whiteclad figures at the end of the season. Instead of infrequent scores tallied by long shots from the center circle were well executed team plays that clicked through the opponent's defense with accuracy and speed. Thus the season closed for Tom Conley and his Big Four Co-Champions, and a squad with a year of experience will take the floor in 1941-1942.

Although the Blue Streak quintet was victorious in but eight games of the twenty-one game schedule they offered enough potential strength to attract large crowds and win a share of the Big Four crown.

Individual honors go to Carroll's lanky center, Co-Captain John Freedman, and Fred Fanelly, star forward. Both men, because of their consistent scoring and vigorous team play, earned places on Cleveland's Big Four team. Freedman's average of 12.8 points per game won for him the only unanimous selection on the team of stars. Fanelly, the sensational midget of the league, was hampered by the recovery from an appendectomy but yet he averaged 7.3 points in eighteen games.

Co-Captain Charles Sheehe and Frank Talty formed the bulwark of Carroll's defense during most of the season. The value of Captain-elect Talty was not fully realized until the Streaks were minus his services in the Niagara and St. Bonaventure encounters. Talty, partially recovered from a knee injury, returned in time to help Carroll down the Clever Yellow Jackets of Baldwin-Wallace 50-47. Together, Sheehe and Talty worked efficiently and opposing forwards found Carroll's defense difficult to penetrate.

Among others worthy of merit is Jack Hunt whose last minute long shot downed Bowling Green 37-36. In such sophomores as Neal Carroll, Joe Dempsey, Ray Knapp, Bernie Brysh, Ray Duffy and Ed. Posipanka, Tom Conley will find the nucleus of his future quintets.

The record of this year's Streaks was neither sensational nor good. Carroll's frequent road trips proved disastrous and overshadowed the glory of home victories in the Big Four. However, a close check of the statistics show that in only two encounters, Wittenberg and Toledo, were the boys of Carroll completely outplayed.

Big Four competition saw Carroll defeat Case twice by the scores of 30-28 and 50-42. Against B.-W. the Streaks could do no better than win the first game 50-47 and then lose the return contest 34-38. A split in the Western Reserve series cost Carroll sole possession of first place in the Big Four. The Streaks copped the opener 40-22 but the Red Cats gained revenge to the tune of 48-41.

To Tom Conley and his assistant, Ray McGorray goes the honor of bringing Carroll its only championship of the current year. Both men worked diligently and their efforts were well rewarded. They won a title and at the same time built a foundation for teams of the future.

GOLF

Robert Trivison

THE golf team took on a new spirit this year as it was composed of a lively and serious group of linkmen. The team was started last year, but it was not well organized and, as a consequence, was not highly successful as a team. However, this year the squad enjoyed a measure of success. Considerable difficulty in scheduling matches was encountered because very few of the schools in this vicinity have included golf in their athletic programs. The schools that were met in matches were Akron University and Kent State University, with whom a home and home series was played.

From hockey to golf was not such a big jump for Herb Bee who has coached several championship hockey teams at Carroll, and he performed the job of golf coach with just as much enthusiasm. Bee had several promising men on his team, among whom were: Bob Trivison former intramural golf champion; Matt Schneider, whose golf ability and knowledge is a family heritage; Al Gaul; Fred Fanelly; and John Toth.

There is every indication that this new sport will prosper at John Carroll for there was a wholesome spirit manifested by these boys who absorbed some of the driving spirit of their coach. Good luck to you, golfers—may you carry Carroll's name to victory in another field.

CARROLL has been stopped! Carroll has been beaten! Yes, the Kings of Hockey, mighty John Carroll fell before a surprisingly improved and hard skating Case sextet on March 21, 1941. This defeat was the first in Carroll hockey history since January 11, 1939 when Duquesne blanked the Streaks 3-0. Thus ended Carroll's streak at forty-one games.

Defeat was bitter, for Carroll battled through the regulation periods and three overtimes before Case tallied the winning goal. There was no excuse from the Streaks for the victory was a long sought and hard earned prize for the Case Scientists. Time had finally overtaken Carroll and defeat was inevitable.

Prior to their collapse, the Carroll icers played a brand of hockey that was fast, blinding and superior to any in the local league. Coach Herb Bee's veterans of last year's successful campaign, team with Hachey to form a first line that was unequalled and feared throughout Ohio.

Carroll's defensive star was Bob Smith, versatile New York goalie. His work in the net has been the best in Cleveland hockey for two seasons and Coach Bee plans to leave Smith in the goal mouth during next year's campaign.

Gene Davis, Vince DeJulius and John Scacutto formed Carroll's first line of defense during the entire season. The bruising style of play of first line was so powerful and effective that it compiled a total of 42 goals to its opponents 13.

To Joe Hachey, spectacular Maine flyer, goes the top scoring honors with 25 goals and 11 assists for a total of 36 points. Capt. Don Myers and Clem Rannigan were next in line with respective totals of 25 and 21 points. The only other point scored by a Carroll man was a single assist by Tom Smith. Consistent teamwork and hard checking on the part of Capt. Myers and Rannigan paved the way for Carroll's high-scoring line. Both players, the latter two men was spectacular and Scacutto was soon hailed as the "Bad Boy" of the league.

During the regular campaign Carroll downed each of its Cleveland opponents three times. The only non-league combat was with a strong undefeated Penn State sextet which the Blue Streaks toppled by a 3-2 score.

The only scars on the Carroll record of the past season are two 2-1 setbacks in the league play-offs. The opening game of this series was won by the Streaks by a similar score.

With graduation Coach Bee will lose Capt. Myers, star center, and defenseman Gene Davis. Myers will be particularly difficult to replace. His fast skating, clever stick-handling, and stamina was a combination found in few collegiate puckmen.

Carroll hockey teams have been the pride of the university for the past four years and the Streaks of next year plan to continue this success on ice.

THE TENNIS SEASON

WATCHING the enviable record set down by the tennis squad last year, is the task and goal of the 1941 varsity tennis team. Scheduled matches with Oberlin, Kenyon, Kent, Case, Western Reserve, and other colleges in Ohio, present the main obstacles to success.

Kenyon and Oberlin, newcomers on the schedule, represent two of the strongest college teams in this section of the country for they yearly attain national recognition. This year's schedule records no weak opponents and is one of the strongest slates in Carroll's history.

The Carroll netters stand a good chance of equalling all previous records because of the versatility of this year's squad. A large number of lettermen and a substantial group of promising first year men form one of the best aggregations in recent years.

When the spring season opened, Charles W. Heaton was named coach by the Athletic Department. Gerald Nolan, who during the past two years has compiled an enviable record, was elected captain for the coming campaign.

Like Nolan, Robert Kleinhenz is also playing his last year of varsity tennis and his forehand attack is expected to bolster the offense of the team.

From the ranks of the junior class come such stalwarts as Jack Miller, Bill Dowling and Jack Grauel. The latter is playing his first year of varsity tennis but past records show that Grauel plays a smooth and steady game. The effectiveness of the well-placed and killing shots of veterans Jack Miller and Bill Dowling will again play an important role in the success of this year's campaign.

Bruce Thompson and Dick Moriarty are the youngest additions to Carroll's netters. The former was the winner of the intramural tennis tournament in his freshman year and Coach Heaton predicts a great future for this sophomore.

SINCE Carroll had to use a greater part of its sophomore material during the past gridiron campaign, the coaches began to realize the importance of a well-drilled freshman squad. Graduation has again taken its toll at Carroll and Tom Conley must search among the frosh for capable replacements for such stand-outs as Capt. Carl Estenik, Lou Konya and Sam Marcus. Speedy back and hard, fast-charging linemen will therefore be the needs of the new varsity team for the 1941 schedule brings an array of powerful teams against the Blue Streaks.

The call for freshmen brought out forty candidates, a small squad in comparison with other years. However, what the squad lacked in quantity was definitely offset in quality, and Coach Sulzer is confident that many of his men will be seeing action as varsity gridders next year.

If past performances are any judge of future achievements, Carroll can look to Harry Haines, Al Francesconi, and Tom Kennedy for outstanding feats in the backfield. John Scaccuto, the hard charging 200 pound guard from John Adams High also is a better than average prospect. The coming season will also see a demand for heavy linemen and this call is expected to be answered by Ed Ecker, Ken Kitchen, and Don Trippany.

FRESHMAN BASKETBALL

AGAIN the freshman basketball team proved that it will definitely be heard from in the future, and Coach McGorray is confident that next year some of his proteges will be wearing the Blue and Gold. The squad of yearlings does not play a regular schedule but the many scrimmages with the varsity revealed that the frosh play a fast and accurate passing game. Varsity men will not rest on their present laurels when the frosh open their challenge for varsity posts on next year's squad.

Through graduation Tom Conley will lose his co-captains, John Freedman and Charles Sheehe. Among the freshmen Conley hopes to find capable substitutes for both of these men.

Ray McGorray, captain of last year's Streaks, assumed coaching duties during the past season and under his guidance the yearlings came in close contact with collegiate basketball. The freshman lineup revealed a star-studded squad. Al Francesconi and Bob Gavin are "All-Staters" from Akron and Steubenville respectively. Another outstanding prospect is New Yorker Bob Byrne. Among other players worthy of note are Ed Heil, Larry Riccilli, Jack Norris, Bob Bixler, Leo Corr, Frank Montana, Tony Zengali, Jerry Kearney, and Don Trippany.

Should this squad but live up to one-half of its advance notices, Carroll will again reign in the Big Four.

INTRAMURAL ATHLETICS

INTRAMURAL BASKETBALL

A GREAT percentage of Carroll's enrollment annually participates in intramural athletics. This year, despite scholastic schedules offering little free time, interest in intramurals rose to a new high.

Managing the basketball tournament this season was Dan Hespen. Directed by Coach Gene Oberst, Hespen guided the cagers in staging a very successful season, and much of the credit is due him. Also deserving recognition are Al Iacobucci and Ed Posipanka who served as referees.

The title race was unusually close this year. Repeating their feat of the previous season, the Zazula Zazas completed their schedule of regular games without a defeat. This squad is composed of Pete Corrigan, high-scoring center, Tom Mazanec, Russ Faist, Tom Smith, Wally Schwartz, and Jack Cooper, all sophomores.

Competition to this strong quintet was offered by Fred Fanelly's Dead Enders and Jimmie Carroll's Bruisers. And it was the Dead Enders that halted the streak of the Zazula Zazas. In the play-off contests to decide the champions, the Dead Enders snatched the first encounter, 21-17, but the Zazulas triumphed in the second, 29-27. Then in the third contest, the Dead Enders copped the title and were crowned intramural cage champions of John Carroll.

INTRAMURAL BASEBALL

TAKING advantage of the warm spring weather, the Athletic department issued the all out call from stuffy rooms to the spacious Carroll campus for the annual intramural baseball season. The many acres surrounding the buildings were converted into diamonds, and each free period saw students batting and tossing the ball, practicing for their games.

About a dozen teams entered competition this year, and Manager Joseph Stolla had a real job in seeing that the contests were run off in order. His was the task of securing umpires, caring for the bats and balls, and arranging the schedule.

But cooperation on all sides eased his work, as each participating nine hoped to win their games and claim the championship cup. And after the last home run was slammed and the last pitch tossed, Coach Gene Oberst, head of Carroll Intramurals, presented the cup to the winning combination.

Competition was unusually strong and all the teams deserve mention. The participants were the Cavaliers, Dead Enders, Engineers, Finks, Gestapos, Idols, Friegers, Streaks, Trotters, Wawacs, Wild Irish, and Zazula Zazas. Promising players were abundant among them, and an excellent varsity squad could be picked from their midst.

BOXING

BEFORE an appreciative audience in the school auditorium, John Carroll presented its fourth annual Boxing Show on the evening of April 3rd. Coach Frank Gaul was again the promoter and manager of the show, and its success is especially attributable to his efforts.

In three of the battles, the referee was forced to stop the fight and award technical knock-out decisions. In this fashion Joe Ciolek battered out his title over Bill Paskert; Chuck Raimondi won his title by subduing Joe Bongiorno, and Ray Knapp vanquished Jim Whelan.

The other bouts were more closely contested. In the 146 pound division Bill Ennen gained a decision over Joe Anzivino. Jerry Higgins won his crown by out-slugging Tom O'Kane. Lanky Joe McMahon was awarded a victory over Jack Hutchinson.

In the two featured bouts of the evening, Bill Lennon and John Wilhelmy emerged as champions. Lennon registered his victory in a slug-fest with battling Frank Reda. Both fighters were in top form and the three rounds were thrill packed. Wilhelmy copped the heavyweight crown by out-punching title-holder Tony Veteran.

WITH more than one hundred and twenty five students participating, Carroll's most successful table-tennis tournament was staged this year. After all the matches were played, Bob Gavin, freshman paddler received the silver medal symbolic of his title as ping-pong champ of the school. But it wasn't all as easy as this, for to attain this crown Gavin had to down much stiff competition. Prominent among them were Russ Faist, finalist, and Bill Muller, Bob Woods, Dick Schmidle, Bob and Dick Kenney, Irv Friedman, Bob Dombriski, and Len Pchola. Their comparative abilities made this one of the most popular of intramural activities.

The tournament was presented through the combined efforts of the Carroll Union and the Sports Staff of the Carroll News. But managing this fifth-annual affair were Russ Faist and Joe Wolff. Scheduling matches and making the minute yet necessary arrangements became their work and quite successfully did they accomplish their duties. The athletic department furnished the prize offered the winner.

The continuance of such activities holds promise of creating greater interest among students for school life. For intramural athletics furnish that necessary relaxation between classes, not only physically, but mentally as well.

BOWLING

CARROLL inaugurated another activity for student participation this season. It was the fast growing sport of bowling that seized so many students' interest that it will be continued next year.

Three students, Eddie Arth, Al Yohman, and Russ Faist conceived the idea of a tournament, and organized the seven team league with games played weekly at the Shaker Square alleys. The Tappa Keglers were the winners among the maple-topplers with 29 wins against 13 losses. Next in line were the Blitzkriegers and Dive Bombers.

Many individual bowling stars were discovered. Most prominent among them were Ted Virag, who was high scorer with a 176 season average, and Len Pchola with 170.

Combined with Restifo, Sanson, and Zaller, Virag and Pchola formed the team which represented Carroll against other schools. In defeating Fenn College, the Keglers gained an almost six-hundred pin margin of victory. Herb Zaller showed excellent style for the Streaks with 566. The bowlers likewise displayed skill in their final engagement with Dyke School.

SOCIAL LIFE

THE CARROLL PROM OF 1940

THE PROM has become the high-spot of the social year at Carroll and the Prom of 1941, following that tradition, was an event that will long be remembered by all those who attended.

The royalty for the evening were Prom King Al Markus and Prom Queen Dorothy Koenig. Honorary Chairman was Bill Joyce, President of the Carroll Union, and Honorary Queen was Miss Lois Donahue. Other Prom Committee members and hostesses were: Don Myers and Carolyn Nichols; Bob Ress and Janet DeLong; Joe McCarthy and Gladys McCalligan; Jack Ennen and Mary Helen Shea; John Schmitt and Jean Nash; Ed Sheridan and Mary Jane Garvey; Frank Talty and Winifred Murray; Clayton Matowitz and Agnes Weber; and Kermit Neely and Mary McGraw.

Larry Clinton's well-known orchestra played for the dancers in the beautiful ballroom of the Hotel Cleveland, and the "Old Dipsy-Doodler", one of the foremost arrangers in the music business, lived up to his fine reputation and provided the dancers with the best of music, both sweet and swing.

Each young lady at the Prom was presented with a favor of personal jewelry, inscribed with the emblem of the school. A special souvenir edition of the Carroll News was also distributed during the evening.

SOCIAL SEASON

THE social season of John Carroll was featured by a series of successful dances sponsored by each of the four classes.

The first of these to receive the spotlight was the annual Homecoming Dance held at the Tudor Arms Hotel in the main ball room, with Bob Pettay's band providing the music. Under the supervision of the Junior Class this affair was attended by a large delegation of the Alumni.

Honoring the lettermen of the football team, the Seniors held a Football Dance, with the popular orchestra of Vincent Pattie offering the rambling rhythm.

The third to gain outstanding recognition was the semi-formal hop supervised by the members of the Sophomore Class, at the conclusion of mid-semester examinations.

One of the most anticipated affairs of the season was the Freshman Dance, which, next to the Senior Prom, was proclaimed by all as the most enjoyable of all the school dances.

Combining the efforts of the members of all the classes, the Band and Glee Club jointly sponsored a gay informal dance on the Campus. This cooperative spirit is symbolic of the interest shown by each organization for the others in the promotion of the activities of John Carroll.

These events represent but a fraction of the season social calendar sponsored by the University throughout the past year. Their success may be largely attributed to the splendid diligence of the officers of each of the classes.

THE EDITOR'S PAGE

TO every student editor comes a welcome moment quite near the end of his task, when it is his pleasant labor to express in some words the gratitude he feels for that large group of individuals without whose freely given and friendly assistance the task of compiling the chronicle of an academic year would be immeasurably greater and certainly more difficult.

In this particular instance the editor is doubly grateful, because not only does he find himself with a debt to acknowledge to his friends of the staff, but also a similar indebtedness to certain employees of the commercial houses with which The CARILLON has had business. These friendly individuals have gone beyond the duties of their respective positions in extending to the somewhat befogged editor the advantages of their mature experience.

Most important in the publication of this book is the financial plan and assistance contributed by Fr. Horne and Fr. McCue. Without their support and interest the yearbook would never have become a reality. Also heading this necessarily incomplete list of benefactors must come one name, that of Rev. Bernard J. Wernert, S.J., whose guidance and enthusiasm proved a source of constant inspiration.

To Director of Photography Irwin Friedman, John Prochaska, Donald Blodgett, Bert Gesing, Robert Dinsmore, Joseph Sepkosoki and Robert Kraus the editor is especially grateful for their care and labor in obtaining a photographic survey of the University.

To the following men the editor is grateful for it is these students that have lessened the task of editorial writing: John Whelan, Robert Ennen, Joseph Wolff, Mitchell Shaker, Francis Honn, William Reilly, William Driscoll and Richard Spath. To Thomas Dunnigan goes special merit not only for his writing but his aid in proof reading.

Into the hands of Robert Bambrick and Robert Byrne was placed the business management of this book. Their efforts were most effective and met the ever increasing costs of publication. Closely allied to the business staff of The CARILLON was the Publicity Department which consisted of Stanley Carpenter, Joseph Petrick, Edward Manofsky and Frank Zacharias.

Most prominent among our commercial aides was Mr. W. Carl Schafer of the Judson Company, printers of this book. His tolerant criticism and friendly advice, which was instrumental in the final assembly and planning of these pages, greatly facilitated the work of the editor.

To Mr. Russ Snyder of the Pontiac Engraving Company The CARILLON is most appreciative for his aid in preparing the dummy and placing of photographs.

Also worthy of merit is the Senior Photographer, Trout-Ware, Inc. Only because of their cooperation and sacrifice of time was The CARILLON able to present such a complete pictorial record of the graduating class.

At last The CARILLON is complete and ready for criticism by the students of John Carroll. In judging this book please consider the brief time in which your editor had to gather pictures, assign editorials and finally compile his material. All this took time at the cost of sacrificing some schoolwork and much sleep. This is not an appeal for praise or pity but a direct appeal to the students to get behind their annual early in the year.

The CARILLON is now an institution at Carroll and every effort should be made to guarantee its publication in the future. At present The CARILLON is young but within the next decade this annual publication of John Carroll University should rise to great heights and take its place among the best yearbooks of the nation.
